The New "Aunt Jane" Book

The Land of Long Ago

By ELIZA CALVERT HALL

Author of "Aunt Jane of Kentucky"

MARGARET E. SANGSTER says: "It is not often that an author competes with herself, but Eliza Calvert Hall has done so successfully, for her second volume centered about Aunt Jane is more fascinating than her first. Never was the atmosphere of Old Kentucky more faithfully reproduced."

Personal Reminiscences of an Illustrious Life

From My Youth Up

An Autobiography

MARGARET E.
SANGSTER

The most fascinating reading is found in these vivid recollections of Mrs. Sangster's useful life from her birth up to the present time. The events of the last half century—the days of war—of reconstruction, of editorial responsibility, of mingling with the leading literary lights of these most fruitful years, are now for the first time found in print. Illustrated, net $1.50

A Girl Graduate's Story

Introducing Corinna

WINIFRED

On October 16th We Shall Publish

After Death—What?

Spiritistic Phenomena and their Interpretation

By CESARE LOMBROSO

Alienist Professor of Psychiatry in the University of Turin.

Author of "The Female Offender," "The Man of Genius," etc.

After a lifetime investigating insanity and criminology, by which he has become as conspicuous among criminologists as, well, say, Sherlock Holmes among detectives, Professor Lombroso recently electrified the scientific world by declaring his interest in psychical research—the great question of spiritual survival after bodily death.

After Death—What? is his first contribution to the subject, the first fruit of his investigations, and it would be difficult to put too high a value on its scientific significance. It is fascinating reading, too, for the general reader. Professor Lombroso has prepared the book especially for us, and it will receive its first publication here.

As a trade proposition it is immense, because it treats largely of the famous Eusapia Palladino, the wonderful Italian medium, and of the author's own experiments with her mediumship. Eusapia Palladino is expected to arrive in the United States during the present month. Already she has become well known through Flammarion's Mysterious Psychic Forces, which we published two years ago, and the current numbers of the American Magazine and McClure's contain articles by Professor William James and Hereward Carrington largely dealing with her. By special arrangement with us, Hampton's recently presented to its readers brief selections from After Death—What? and these, too, have given wide publicity to Lombroso and the famous medium.

All told, there is, therefore, a tremendous impetus for the book already. With publication still two weeks off, advance orders enable us to predict an unusually heavy demand.

The book is profusely illustrated with photographs, drawings, etc.

Cassell's Little Classics

A series of masterpieces of Biography, Fiction, Essays, Poetry and Belles Lettres, issued at a remarkably low price in an artistic format, well printed on a fine quality paper, and strongly bound. Pocket size, $6\frac{1}{4} \times 4\frac{1}{4}$ inches.

Cloth, gold on back and side, 25 cents net, per volume

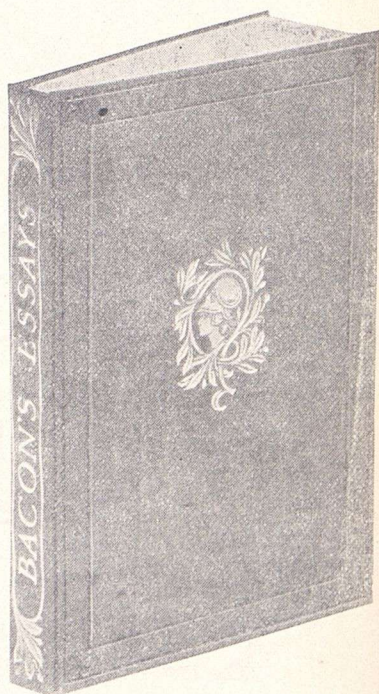

Introductions are contributed by such well-known writers as G. K. Chesterton, Austin Dobson, Stuart J. Reid, A. T. Quiller-Couch, and others. Each book contains a fine portrait of the author, with autograph in facsimile as a frontispiece. The portraits are charmingly printed in photo-gravure and enclosed in artistic borders. A book plate, printed in bright olive green, is also to be found in each volume.

The binding has been specially designed. The gold medallion of Minerva's head on the side, the gold back lettering and the artistic shades of green and light brown cloths used give distinction to the volumes.

Great Possessions

By MRS. WILFRID WARD

A FASCINATING story of London life, which introduces the reader to the world of fashion with its veneer of gayety and its masked sorrows, its chit-chat and gossip and tragedy. It is a story of poverty stolidly borne and of wealth recklessly squandered, a story of an inherited legacy of evil tendencies that rouses one's pity for the possessor of them rather than one's anger. The book might well be described as an English House of Mirth.

FRENCH CATHEDRALS

Text by ELIZABETH ROBINS PENNELL. Reproductions, many in two printings, of 183 drawings by JOSEPH PENNELL. A magnificent volume, uniform with "English Cathedrals." Royal 8vo. 425 pages. Price, $5.00 net; postage, 34 cents.

For the student, the architect, the traveler, the general reader, this book has a value and authority no other volume has yet possessed. The text and illustrations are both a rare delight, reflecting the sympathy and enthusiasm that have entered into their making.

ROMANTIC GERMANY

By ROBERT HAVEN SCHAUFFLER. Frontispiece in full color by Scherres. Sixty full-page illustrations by famous German artists, O'Lynch von Town, Gertrude Wurm, Scherres, Vetter, and Herrmann, all in two printings. Royal 8vo, 400 pages. Price, $3.50 net; postage, 19 cents.

A delightful book, appealing to the traveler, the German-American, and the lover of the picturesque, and covering a field of travel and description practically untouched since Bayard Taylor's "Views Afoot." The illustrations have been labors of love by some of the more notable of the younger German painters.

ONE HUNDRED COUNTRY HOUSES

By AYMAR EMBURY, II. One hundred half-tone illustrations, from fine photographs of the best and most interesting types of modern country homes. Heavy pages, broad margins. Size, 10 x 11 inches. Price, $3.00 net; postage, 30 cents.

Here is a book for every-country dweller, and for every would-be country dweller, the most suggestive, comprehensive, and delightful volume on the history, development, uses, and abuses of American architecture yet published.

THE STORY OF DUTCH PAINTING

By CHARLES H. CAFFIN, author of "How to Study Pictures," etc. Twenty-five half-tone reproductions of notable Dutch canvases. Square 8vo, 160 pages. Price, $1.20 net; postage, 12 cents.

A complete and entertaining handbook of Dutch art—of unusual worth for adult students of art as well as for wide-awake young folks. The fine illustrations add greatly to the volume's value and interest.

RECOLLECTIONS OF GROVER CLEVELAND

By GEORGE F. PARKER. Photogravure frontispiece. Thirty-two half-tone illustrations from photographs. Royal 8vo, 400 pages. Price, $3.00 net; postage, 21 cents.

Beyond question the most important biographical issue of the season—an accurate, sympathetic narrative of Mr. Cleveland's life, with an estimate of his place in history, and an appreciation of his achievements and character.

ROBERT FULTON AND THE CLERMONT

The authoritative story of Robert Fulton's early experiments, persistent efforts, and historic achievements, by ALICE CRARY SUTCLIFFE, great-granddaughter of the inventor. Handsomely illustrated, with many of Fulton's hitherto unpublished letters, drawings, and pictures. 12mo, 367 pages. Price, $1.20 net; postage, 11 cents. This is a notable contribution to history and to the records of steam-navigation, of great timely interest to all American citizens. The book is notable for the large amount of Fulton material given publication for the first time now, and for the most remarkable collection of Fulton illustrations ever brought together.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT

By FRANK J. GOODNOW, Eaton Professor of Administrative Law and Municipal Science in Columbia University. Author of "City Government in the United States." Uniform with Prof. Bailey's "Modern Social Conditions." 8vo, 420 pages. Gilt top. Price, $3.00 net; postage extra.

This admirably planned and executed work covers a field no other one volume does more than touch. The various phases, the merits and demerits of municipal government not only in this country but abroad, not only to-day but in the past, are fully treated; and the author gives a helpful list of authorities. It is an invaluable work.

ALCOHOL

A study of its effect on the individual, the community, and the race, by HENRY SMITH WILLIAMS, M.D., LL.D. Boards, 151 pages. Price, 50 cents net; postage, 5 cents.

The most important and striking study of alcohol and its influence that has yet been given to the public. Important statistics and tables add to its value.

THE TRAINING OF FARMERS

By LIBERTY H. BAILEY, Director of the College of Agriculture of Cornell University, and Editor of the Cyclopedia of Agriculture. Price, $1.00 net; postage, 8 cents.

Discussion of the vital problems of farm life and of the farmer's place in the scheme of modern American civilization.

DRY-FARMING: ITS PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE

By WILLIAM MACDONALD, M.S.Agr., Sc.D., Ph.D. Thirty-two full-page illustrations. 12mo, 250 pages. Price, $1.20 net; postage, 11 cents.

The history, development, possibilities, and methods of farming on land where the soil is fertile though the rainfall is below normal.

There is nothing in the English language more exquisite than this love story of "Little Sister Snow," quaintest and most bewitching of Japanese lassies, and below the surface charm runs a deep undercurrent of dramatic power.

AUNT AMITY'S SILVER WEDDING

By RUTH McENERY STUART, author of "Sonny," etc. Illustrations by Frederic Dorr Steele, A. B. Frost, and others. 16mo, 228 pages. Price, $1.00.

Mrs. Stuart has done nothing better—not even in "Sonny"—than this book of short stories. Humor and pathos are blended in every line.

ZANDRIE

By MARIAN EDWARDS RICHARDS. Frontispiece in color. 12mo, 350 pages. Price, $1.50.

An unusual story of an unusual girl, "half angel and half bird," charmingly told by a new writer. An increasingly fascinating story and one full of surprises.

ANTONIO

By ERNEST OLDMEADOW, author of "Susan," etc. Frontispiece in color. 12mo, 581 pages. Price, $1.30 net; postage, 15 cents.

A strong and dramatic novel of a Monk and a Man and a Girl; and how Love brought joy and sorrow and a great struggle.

AN UNOFFICIAL LOVE STORY

By ALBERT HICKMAN. Illustrated. 16mo, 200 pages. Price, $1.00.

Marjorie is quite the most bewitching—and bewildering—proposition put into a book in many a long day; and her adventures are handled with the rich and racy humor of which Mr. Hickman is past master.

THE PRODIGAL FATHER

THE BOYS' LIFE OF ULYSSES S. GRANT

By HELEN NICOLAY, author of "The Boys' Life of Lincoln," etc. Sixteen illustrations. 12mo, 378 pages. Price, $1.50.

Good reading for young folks of all ages, and a worthy companion volume to Miss Nicolay's classic "Boys' Life of Lincoln."

WHEN I GROW UP

Jolly pictures and verse by W. W. DENSLOW. Twenty-four full pages in color. Twenty-four full-page half-tones, with chapter headings, tail-pieces, and marginal drawings. Square 8vo. Price, $1.00 net; postage 12 cents. Just the cleverest record yet set down of a healthy lad's nebulous dreams of what he would like to be when he grows up; and the funniest book yet of the famous illustrator of "The Wizard of Oz."

FROM SIOUX TO SUSAN

By AGNES McCLELLAND DAULTON, author of "Fritzi," etc. Twenty-two full-page illustrations by Bessie Collins Pease. 12mo, 342 pages. Price, $1.50.

The pretty story, delightfully told, of a happy family's happy home life and of a brave, madcap girl's days of storm and stress as she fights, to a glad success, her faults.

A SON OF THE DESERT

By BRADLEY GILMAN. Sixteen illustrations by Thornton Oakley. 12mo, 363 pages. Price, $1.50.

A stirring story of a young American lad's adventures in Egypt, with the brave son of a Bedouin sheik for hero. The best kind of an adventure book.

THE LASS OF THE SILVER SWORD

By MARY CONSTANCE DU BOIS. Twenty-two illustrations by C. M. Relyea. 12mo, 418 pages. Price, $1.50.

A story of girls and boys—for girls and boys—quite out of the ordinary in its jollity and its many real adventures. Most of the scenes are set in an Adirondack camp.

STORIES OF THE GREAT WEST

By THEODORE ROOSEVELT. With 16 full-page illustrations by Frederic Remington and others. 12mo, 254 pages. Price, 60 cents net.

A collection of Mr. Roosevelt's best writings on the discoveries, growth, and life of the Great West—a stirring, patriotic, wholesome book.

Postponement

WITH the exception of Mr. Kipling's new volume of stories, "Actions and Reactions," which was published October 5th, we have been obliged to carry over the books announced in last week's Publishers' Weekly. We will therefore issue on October 14th:

IN THE BORDER COUNTRY By Josephine Daskam Bacon

Mrs. Bacon's three unique "fairy tales" carry a message of hope and cheer and uplifting courage to harassed and wearied womankind. The stories throb with sympathy—they are beautiful idyls of understanding. Illustrations. Fixed price, $1.00.

Kipling's Actions and Reactions TO THE TRADE:

Not since the publication of "The Day's Work," ten years ago, have we issued so characteristic a volume of Mr. Kipling's stories, in so many different successful fields, as the new book, ACTIONS AND REACTIONS. (Just out.) The book is full of new material; the only tale that has appeared in permanent form before is the airship story "With the Night Mail," which occupies only about a tenth of the volume.

For instance: There is "An Habitation Enforced," the story of a jaded American business man, who lives the life of an English country gentleman in the hope of re-establishing his health—with all of the, to him, novel and old-world things that happen to him and his wife.

A wonderful dog story is "Garm—A Hostage," a tale of the hot plains of India, in which we meet again our old friend Private Ortheris, one of the "Soldiers Three."

An allegorical story is "The Mother Hive." A good many people think it is as beautiful in conception, and as brilliantly written as anything Mr. Kipling has done.

The Stricklands, of favored memory, reappear in "A Deal in Cotton," a story of their son, a young English officer thrown upon his own resources, and of what he accomplished with the natives by enthusiasm and grit.

In "Little Foxes," we have a character of the "Plain Tales from the Hills" type—the English fox-hunting officer fighting against the red tape of the government in trying to do things in far-away lands.

Then there is the supernatural story of "The House Surgeon"—besides several others, equally compelling.

The book has also many new poems, and altogether will delight all lovers of Kipling's work beyond any book of his published in many years.

Eight illustrations. $1.50.

NOTES IN SEASON.

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY will publish October 16 "After Death—What?," Cesare Lombroso's book for which the scientific world has waited so eagerly. The Alienistic

Professor of Psychiatry in the University of Turin after a life-time of investigating insanity and criminology has startled the scientific world by taking up the great psychological question of spiritual survival after physical death. The book gives much attention to Eusapia Palladino, the famous Italian Medium who is expected to arrive in this country within the present month.

CASSELL & COMPANY, Limited, have now ready a series of masterpieces of biography, fiction, essays, poetry and miscellaneous literature to be known as Cassell's Little Classics. Introductions to the little volumes are contributed by such writers as C. K. Chesterton, Austin Dobson, A. T. Quiller-Couch, Stuart K. Reid and people of that standard. Each book contains a good portrait of the author, with autograph, as frontispiece. The binding has a special design of Minerva's head on the side, and is of green or light brown color with gilt lettering. The fourteen first volumes include "Adam Bede," "East Lynne," "Essays of Elia," "A Tale of Two Cities," "Tennyson's Poems, 1830-1865," "Westward Ho!" "The Scarlet Letter," "Cloister and the Hearth," etc.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just ready a book which is worth more than a passing notice, entitled "Tag, or, the Chien Boule Dog," by Valance J. Patriarche. The author's identity is bound to be asked after a perusal of the novel, although surely none but a woman could plot such a hilarious chain of circumstances as that of a young bridal couple, with a little French Canadian boy foisted on them, trying to tell a credible tale in order to find lodging in the cynical city of New York. But, on the other hand, could any other than a masculine author so ably picture the feelings of an able-bodied groom reduced from the defensive to the common carrier of the Chien Boule Dog! The book is aptly named, since one never quite catches up with the plot until the game is finished, and everybody has been "Tag! You're it!"

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY will publish on Saturday, October 16, the following notable list of books: "The Severed Mantle," a novel of the troubadours, by William Lindsey; "The American People," a study in national psychology, by A. Maurice Low; "Recollections," by Washington Gladden; "Astronomy from a Dipper," a popular little handbook by Eliot C. Clarke; "The Autobiography," a critical and comparative study, by Anna Robeson Burr; a prose translation of "The Nibelungenlied," by Prof. Daniel B. Shumway, of the University of Pennsylvania; "Fifty Years in Constantinople and Recollections of Robert College," by Dr. George Washburn; "The Story of the Greek People," an introductory history for young people, by Eva March Tappan; "Changing Conceptions of Education," by Professor E. P. Cubberley; and a Riverside Press edition of Walton's "Compleat Angler," limited to 400 numbered copies for sale.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

 The prices of net books issued by publishers who protect the prices of their new publications are preceded in this list by the double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. Works of fiction (not net) of which a minimum price is protected by their publishers, are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not protected are preceded by a single asterisk *, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Altsheler, Jos. Alexander. The Free Rangers: a story of early days along the Mississippi. N. Y., Appleton, 1909. c. 365 p. col. pls. D. cl., †$1.50.

The five woodsmen, whose achievements are chronicled in "The forest runners," determine to present the true state of affairs between the American settlers in Kentucky and the emissaries of Spain to the Spanish governor-general of Louisiana Province, in New Orleans. They journey down the Mississippi, fight Indians and meet with many adventures before their mission is successfully accomplished.

Altsheler, Jos. Alexander. The last of the chiefs: a story of the great Sioux war. N. Y., Appleton, 1909. c. 7+337 p. col. pls. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of pioneer days in the Far West. Two white boys, brothers, join a caravan crossing the Western plains under the guidance of an Indian. After escaping from a massacre they establish themselves in a wonderful valley of Montana, where for two years they live as trappers accumulating skins. When returning to civilization they are captured by Indians and finally see General Custer destroy the various Indian tribes.

Arpee, Leon. The Armenian awakening; a history of the Armenian church, 1820-1860. Chic., University of Chicago Press, 1909. c. 11+235 p. por. D. cl., *$1.25 net.

The Armenian church was the first national Christian church of the world, having been established not later than the beginning of the fourth century. It early became hellenistic in type and in all essential particulars resembles the Greek church. At the opening of the nineteenth century vital religion among the people was at a low ebb. Superstition, ceremonialism and priestcraft prevailed. The Bible was hard to secure and was in the ancient classical tongue, unintelligible to the common people and often to the priest as well. The awakening did not come until about 1830, and was due more or less directly to Protestant missionaries. Mr. Arpee has carefully traced all the causes and shows their results to the present time. Bibliography (4 p.). Index.

Bailey, Liberty Hyde. The training of farmers. N. Y., Century Co., 1909. c. 8+263 p. D. cl., $1 net.

Professor Bailey is director of the College of Agriculture, Cornell University, and author of many books on agriculture; he, therefore, speaks authoritatively on any subject connected with rural life and problems. This book is a presentation of the farmer's place in the scheme of American development, his possibilities and his obligations to society. The countryman must not be a mere recipient, but must himself help and co-operate in the solution of the rural problems.

Baker, C. S. What Sheila did; the adventures of an only child; with coloured and other illustrations. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1909.] 7+127 p. S. cl., 50 c.

Sheila was a little girl of four who had no brothers and sisters. Her mother wrote the story of all she did in one year and this is what the book tells.

Baker, C. McCoy, and Inglis, Alexander Ja. High school course in Latin composition. In 2 v. and 3 pts. [New ed.] N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. 14+350; 10+270 p. 12°, v. 1, pts. 1, 2, cl., *60 c. net; v. 2, pt. 3, cl., *55 c. net.

Baker, Etta Anthony. The girls of Fairmount; il. by Maud Tousey. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., [1909.] c. 295 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

An interesting tale of boarding-school life, with the usual life and vivacity necessary in a story about girls of sixteen or eighteen. Plots and tragedies and fun abound.

Barbour, Ralph H. Double play: a story of school and baseball. N. Y., Appleton, 1909. c. 315 p. col. pls. D. cl., †$1.50.

Dan Vinton, the hero of "Forward pass," is also the chief figure in this story of his second year at Yardley Hall. He has taken under his care Gerald Pennimore, a rich boy, whose life he had saved and who manages to get into a good many scrapes, finally running away to New York, but Dan brings him back and starts him on the road to popularity among his schoolmates. The training of the baseball nine with the great game against Broadwood will appeal to all boys.

Barr, Rob., ["Luke Sharpe," pseud.] Cardillac; with a col. front. by A. G. Learned. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1909.] c. 366 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

France at the time when Louis XIII., scarcely more than a lad, had just seized the reins of government from his mother, Marie de Medicis, is the scene of this tale of adventure. Victor de Cardillac comes to Paris to seek his fortune, bringing with him a letter which he supposes to be from Charles d'Albert de Luynes, the King's favorite and prime minister, who has imprisoned the Queen Mother at Blois. Finding the letter a hoax, Cardillac throws in his fortunes with the Duke de Montreuil, the Queen's chief ally. After rescuing the Duke's daughter from a convent where she is held as a hostage, he next succeeds in freeing Marie de Medicis. These deeds are only accomplished with much display of bravery and resource, and as such deeds should be rewarded by the hand of a fair lady Cardillac receives the appropriate guedron.

Barrows, Mary Minerva, ed. The value of happiness; introduction by Margaret E.

Sangster. Bost., H. M. Caldwell Co., [1909.] c. 14+15-193 p. O. (Value ser.) cl., $1.50; $2; chamois, $2.50; leath., $4; cf., $5.

Selections in verse and prose, all of which teach the value of happiness. Printed in two colors with decorated pages and bound as a gift-book.

Beach, E: Latimer. Ralph Osborn—midshipman at Annapolis; a story of life at the U. S. Naval Academy; il. by Frank T. Merrill. Bost., W. A. Wilde Co., [1909.] c. 366 p. D. cl., $1.50.

While the wonderful course of our battleship fleet is still fresh in the minds of the youth of our country, this story of our naval college will prove most popular. Gives an accurate, interesting and enjoyable story of just what a naval officer's life really is during the days of his apprenticeship.

Bennet, Rob. Ames. A volunteer with Pike; the true narrative of one Dr. John Robinson and his love for the fair Señorita Vallois; with 4 il. in color by Charlotte Weber-Ditzler. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1909. c. 453 p. O. cl., $1.50.

Scene laid first in Washington in 1805 in the days of Thomas Jefferson. Dr. John Robinson and his Spanish sweetheart are led through dramatic scenes of social gaiety at the Capital, distress on the wild frontier, and final impressment aboard a man-of-war. Aaron Burr and Zebulon Pike are among the characters and the discovery of Pike's Peak a vital part of the plot.

Bisgood, Mary. Powder and Jam; with 32 coloured plates by the author. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1909.] 123 p. obl. T. cl., $1.

Funny verses and pictures for children.

Bradley, J: W. Illuminated manuscripts; with 21 illustrations. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1909. 14+290 p. S. (Little books on art; ed. by Cyril Davenport.) cl., $1 net.

The first four volumes of the series include Almack's "Bookplates," Davenport's "Jewellery" and "Miniatures" and Dawson's "Enamels." Begins with a general description of decorative art and manuscripts, followed by a list of manuscripts covering 32 pages and a bibliography of the subject of manuscripts covering 9 pages.

Brainerd, Eveline Warner, comp. Great hymns of the Middle Ages. N. Y., Century Co., 1909. c. 36+122 p. T. (Thumb-nail ser.) leath., $1, boxed.

Thirty-six of the grand old Latin hymns written by burdened ruler, humble monk and learned bishop. The authors names given are those for which the weight of evidence is heaviest, but much is at best conjecture. The compiler's introduction gives a picture of the period when those great poems were written which have been used in the Christian worship for so many centuries. A notable addition to the exquisite Thumb-nail series.

Branson, I: Reichelderfer. Yosemite against corporation greed; shall half of Yosemite national park be destroyed by San Francisco?; a thesis against it. Aurora, Neb., I. R. Branson, 1909. c. 30 p. front. D. pap., gratis.

Written to help the effort to save the beautiful Hech-Hechy Valley of the Yosemite National Park and the whole park itself from the attempted invasion of San Francisco. That city has a Bill pending in Congress to get a grant of the greater half for her water works, etc., etc.

Brown, Abbie Farwell, and Bell, Ja. Mackintosh. Tales of the Red Children; with numerous illustrations. N. Y., Appleton, 1909. c. 126 p. D. cl., $1.

About a dozen stories which tell some of the legends of the North American Indians. They deal largely with animals both in their native haunts, where the Indian children met and talked with them, and in their daily life among themselves.

Camp, Walter Chauncey. Jack Hall at Yale; a football story. N. Y., Appleton, 1909. c. 208 p. col. pls. D. cl., $1.50.

Jack Hall earns his way through Yale. He has three years of hard work before he can enter, but it only makes him more manly and better able physically and mentally to fill the place on the football team when his opportunity comes.

Capps-Oliver, Martha, comp. Round the year with the poets; a compilation of nature poems by Martha Capps-Oliver, and il. with 13 portraits of prominent authors. Bost., H. M. Caldwell Co., [1909.] c. 400. 403 p. D. cl., $1.50; limp leath., $3.

Carey, Rosa Nouchette. The key of the unknown. Phil., Lippincott, 1909. c. 6+353 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The last book by Miss Carey, which was on the press at the time of her death in July. It tells once more one of the stories of English life among gently-bred people, which we have learned to expect from this author. Joan Leigh and Richard Bastow are the hero and heroine, whose love runs counter to family wishes for a while, but in the end happiness comes to them.

Carità. Lacis; practical instructions in filet brodé or darning on net; fully il. with patterns and working drawings and colored frontispiece. Phil., Lippincott, 1909. 143 p. 4°, cl., $3.50 net.

Carmichael, Philip. The man from the moon; with 8 il. in color and many in black and white by Frank Watkins. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1909.] 296 p. O. cl., $1.50.

One day when Mother Goose was sweeping the snow from the moon the Man in the Moon fell off and down, down, down to earth, where he met the Little Princess, who had been turned out of her kingdom. He immediately set about restoring her to power, and together they had many adventures in the nursery of Doods and Bubbles, a little boy and girl. All the toys played important parts, but particularly a yellow dragon and a mechanical frog.

Chambers, Rob. W: The danger mark; with il. by A. B. Wenzell. N. Y., Appleton, 1909. c. 496 p. D. cl., $1.50 net.

A brother and sister are left alone in the world, inheritors of a vast fortune held in trust by a trust company. As guardian they have an old Long Island Dutchman, a self-made, ascetic Puritan. The children are kept isolated so they may not learn of their riches. They have a young widow as governess and she attempts to get them companionship and freedom. The natural tendencies of the children develop with their years and their youth is made miserable by lack of self-control and great loneliness. Heredity plays a large part in their fate.

Chipman, C: Phillips. The page and the prince; or, a fight for a throne; il. by John Goss. Bost., Ball Publishing Co., 1908, [1909.] c. '08. 350 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author of "An aerial runaway" has written a story of mystery of the "Graustark" order. The healthful excitement keeps up from cover to cover and when the hero becomes the prince and the secret of the "man in grey" is explained the reader is sorry the interesting story is ended.

Clarke, W: Newton. Sixty years with the Bible: a record of experience. N. Y., Scribner, 1909. c. 259 p. D. cl., $1.25 net.

Dr. Clarke tells the story of his own life as student, lover and user of the Bible from the time he began to read it in the fifties to the present day. His story possesses the interest of a human document and his various crises in thought and changes of point of view are fully given. The doctor endeavors to convince many a perplexed and anxious soul that although changing his thoughts and progressing as the years go by he has never lost his firm faith in God and Jesus Christ, nor his love of the Bible words he mastered in his childhood.

Colvin, Ian D. South Africa; with 12 reproductions in colour of original drawings by G. S. Smithard and J. R. Skelton. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1909.] 13+328 p. map, O. (Romance of history ser.; ed. by J: Lang.) cl., *$2 net.

The Romance of history series, of which this book is one, are designed to instruct young readers in the romantically picturesque history which is connected with the spread of England's vast Empire. For other titles of the series in this issue, see Horsley, Reginald, Lang, J.; Lang, W. H., Surridge, Victor.

Commons, J: R., Phillips, Ulrichs B., Gilmore, Eugene A., and others, eds. A documentary history of American industrial society; prepared under the auspices of the American Bureau of Industrial Research, with the co-operation of the Carnegie Institution of Washington; with a preface by R: T. Ely and introd. by J: B. Clark. In 10 v. v. 1, 2, Plantation and frontier, by Ulrich B. Phillips; v. 3, 4, Labor conspiracy cases, 1806-1842, by J: R. Commons and Eugene A. Gilmore; v. 5, 6, Labor movement, 1820-1840, by J: R. Commons and Helen L. Sumner; v. 7, 8, Labor movement, 1840-1860, by J: R. Commons; v. 9, 10, Labor movement, 1860-1880, by J: R. Commons and J: B. Andrews, analytical index. Cleveland, O., Arthur H. Clark Co., 1909. c. il. pors. 4°, cl., per set, *$50 net. Issued two volumes bi-monthly, beginning Sept. 1.

For the first time American readers will now have placed before them everything concerning industrial conditions, labor unions, strikes, wages, the relations between capital and labor, the race problem, and other points in the national industrial history. No pains have been spared to make the work exhaustive, and it includes numerous documents hitherto unknown and inaccessible and rare.

Costello, F: Hankerson. Sure-dart; a story of strange hunters and stranger game in the days of monsters; with 5 il. by Walter J. Enright. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1909. c. 124+320 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A story of two young hunters in the days the scientists call prehistoric, when strange monsters roamed earth, sea and sky and man's only weapon against them was a roughly flaked stone spear or axe. It is not generally supposed men lived in those days, but the conditions were such that human beings might have lived, and the facts seem more real when viewed through human eyes. The neighborhood of Colorado seems to be the scene.

Cotter, Jos. Seamon. A white song and a black one. Louisville, Ky., [Joseph S. Cot-

Author is general counsel and manager of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

Craven, Priscilla. The pride of the Graftons. N. Y., Appleton, 1909. c. 325 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of life among the nobility of London. A family made up of a dissipated, extravagant man, a narrow-minded, straight-laced wife, an insignificant oldest daughter, a mannish second daughter, an invalid younger daughter and a warm-hearted, rebellious boy, who has escaped from his wearing family and gone to America, furnish the actors in the plot which brings in an American millionaire, who finally proves the soothing, modifying, good influence.

Crawford, Francis Marion. Stradella. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. c. '08. 415 p. pls. D. cl., $1.50.

The scenes opens in Venice in the seventeenth century. The old Senator Pignaver betroths himself to his niece Ortensia—a girl of seventeen. He is a patron of art and music and engages young Stradella, the great Italian musician, to teach his niece. These two become lovers, contrive to escape and flee to the South. They have many strange experiences on their way and in Rome, but at the close, having overcome their enemies, having received the blessing of the Pope, all ends well.

Mr. Furlong, an American, describes Tripoli, the quaint Barbary capital—so little known to the world—in all its strangeness, the life and industries. It is a city hardly visited and is still steeped in its primitive customs—resenting the advance of Christian civilization. The episode of the sinking of the frigate "Philadelphia" in 1804 and the finding of the hull is described, as are trips into and impressions of the Sahara. Glossary and index.

Harben, W: Nathaniel. The redemption of Kenneth Galt. N. Y., Harper, 1909. c. 351 p. front. D. cl., †$1.50.

Rural Georgia is the scene of this story of a brilliant and able man, who stands for his own moral laws and betrays a young girl without making honorable amends. He leaves the village allowing another man to be suspected. This other man is portrayed with power. After six years Kenneth Galt has come to power and fame and returns to meet his child and its mother. The novel makes a strong plea for lawful living and consideration of the rights of others.

The speeches of public men where self-government prevails are an unflinching indication of public opinion, and are therefore one of the most fruitful sources of the people's history. Realizing this, the professor of history at Indiana University has brought together a number of orations from the time of James Otis down to Booker T. Washington which are illustrative of the vital questions which have and do occupy the nation's thought. There are notes on the oratory of the various selections.

Hughes, Bp. Edwin Holt. The teaching of citizenship. Bost., W. A. Wilde Co., [1909.] c. 15+240 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Author is a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church and was at one time president of De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind. Citizenship is not a mere matter of knowing how the wheels of the government machine are turned, but a feeling of patriotism and loyalty which even the dark pages of history cannot dull. This is what Mr. Hughes teaches in his book, and he points out that all studies in the school curriculum may help toward a true conception of citizenship. References at bottom of pages. Index.

The celebrated alienist professor of psychiatry and criminology at the University of Turin for years was unwilling to investigate the problems of psychic phenomena candidly and exhaustively. But he has yielded to the call of the times and here studies telepathy, clairvoyance, auto-suggestion, mesmerism, premonition and exemplifies his facts by concrete cases and stories. He embodies his studies of the famous medium Eusapia Paladino, who is now on her way to this country. His book is a treasure house of facts given by one who has been won over from extreme skepticism to an irresistible belief in certain phenomena.

London, Jack. Martin Eden; with a front. by the Kinneys. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. c. '08. 411 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Having fallen in love with a girl much above him in station, Martin Eden, a young sailor, determines to raise himself to her level. By night study and superhuman effort he succeeds, and they become engaged. But the girl, being narrow-mindedly intellectual, has no sympathy with his great ambition, the desire to write, and when his manuscripts are systematically rejected and he acquires some undesirable notoriety, she breaks the engagement. Martin continues his heart-breaking struggles to get into print, struggles which are founded on the author's own experience, and at last when fame and fortune come the girl wishes to renew the engagement. An unexpected denouement ends the book.

Macdonald, W: Dry-farming: its principles and practice. N. Y., Century Co., 1909. c. 14+290 p. il. D. cl., $1.20 net.

The writer deals only with the data obtained by reliable farmers, experiment station workers and the results of his own experience. The manual is intended for those thousands of settlers ceaselessly pouring into the great semi-arid plains of the United States and western Canada. In dry-farming the two fundamental problems are the conservation of moisture and the maintenance of soil fertility.

Marriott, C. When a woman woos. N. Y., John Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1909. 335 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Audrey Tregarthan has her earliest youth spoiled by her constant fear that her mother will yield to her propensity for intoxicating stimulants. While longing for sympathy she meets a doctor who is a widower and she goes to him and tells her troubles at all times. The doctor appreciates the spirit in which she becomes his intimate associate and respects her always. The description of the effect of the mother's sin upon her husband and children is depressing in the extreme.

With some lives between himself and the title of Earl of Brentwood, Seymour Charlton marries a girl of inferior birth. Suddenly he becomes heir and his wife at first finds it difficult to maintain the social position thrust upon her. Before she has become the great lady her husband has tired of her and becomes entangled with a woman of fast life. Tiring of her, also he again makes devoted love to his wife. He becomes innocently involved in a monster speculation scheme, but uses his enormous fortune to pay the creditors in full. Illness brings his wife back to nurse him and their marriage ends happily in a little Welsh home saved from the wreck.

Mighels, Philip Verrill. The pillars of Eden: a novel. N. Y., Desmond Fitzgerald, Inc., [1909.] c. 8+350 p. D. cl., $1.50.

An arraignment of the useless lives led by the idle, fashionable women of the hour. When the husband has slaved for her comfort until ruin stares him in the face, a healthy, happy cousin comes and reads her selfish aunt the needed lessons. A new plan is tried; the wife learns to work, to feel and to be a helpmate instead of a weak, spoiled doll. The pillars of Eden are love, children, work and unselfishness.

We of the United States are apt to think of the War of 1812 as one which held only glory and victory for this country. This account of Sir Isaac Brock's capture of Detroit and his victory at Queenston, where he was killed, show that the Canadians have heroes and battles to their credit which may well be a source of national pride. Book gives the story of Brock's career from boyhood, through his service against Napoleon and command in Canada to his death on the battlefield. Supplement gives Canadian history immediately following the battle of Queenston.

Oppenheim, Ja. Doctor Rast. N. Y., Sturgis & Walton, 1909. c. 321 p. pls. D. cl., $1.50.

Dr. Rast wins his great victory when he gives up the prospect of a prosperous life in the country and throws himself into his work among the East Side Jews. The scenes of his ministrations to the bodily ills and spiritual crises of his patients are pathetic, often tragic. The little child who works herself to death, young lovers facing death or separation, the victims of a terrific excursion-boat disaster, and an attempted suicide fill the book with the crass realness, the obscurity and the squalor of the life east of Broadway.

The suggestion of this work was heartily approved by Mr. Cleveland, and he supplied the author with much of his material, including his opinions of many of the famous men with whom he came in contact. The narrative goes back to the boyhood of the great public character three times nominated for the Presidency, and ends with the last happy days at Princeton. A chronology and short bibliography is given in the appendices. Much of this careful work has already appeared serially.

Parrish, Randall. My lady of the South: a story of the Civil War; il. in full color by Alonzo Kimball. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1909. c. 361 p. O. cl., $1.50.

This author is past master in setting his stage to set off his characters in their historical surroundings and give them atmosphere. This tale is a companion to "My Lady of the North." Strong men and brave women bring home to a younger generation what their fathers lived and died for when the States misunderstood the differences between the people and the States as related to the Federal authority. Brings out the great worth of American citizens of the North and of the South.

Author is instructor in wood-work and pattern making, Lewis Institute, Chicago.

Rowland, H.: Cottrell. Germaine. N. Y., John Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1909. 321 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A man of strictly virtuous life makes a fortune for himself and his publishers by writing risqué books of great artistic merit. He adopts the illegitimate eleven year old daughter of an English nobleman and lets her read books dealing with vice from her earliest years. The girl makes it the object of her life to make her guardian cease from disseminating this degrading literature. Germaine develops into a writer who works wholly for good purposes. The end is tragic and shows the danger of selfishness and lack of self-control. Not for young people.

Vance, Wilson. Big John Baldwin; extracts from the journal of an officer of Cromwell's army recording some of his experiences at the court of Charles I. and subsequently at that of the Lord Protector and on the fields of love and war and finally in the colony of Virginia; ed. with sparing hand. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1909. c. 375 p. D. cl., $1.50.

When in 1638, John Baldwin, at the age of sixteen, started his diary, he was "minded to exclude therefrom all things worldly, or vain and trifling," but mercifully he did not succeed. Bewitching Eleanor Hedges, with her golden hair, which she allows to fly about her pretty face in a fashion which, as her lover writes, "is so untidy, and yet so vastly becoming," plays an enlivening part in the story. No less vivid is the big, strong, naïve Englishman, with a Puritanical conscience and wholesome love of fighting and dogs, who unconsciously draws his own resolute character from the gay days of his youth, through Court and war, till he becomes the leader of a colony in Virginia, and there establishes prosperity and law. The author of this historical romance is the father of Louis Joseph Vance, author of "The bronze bell," etc.

When she returns she finds her husband awakened to a realization of what life should be, and they are able to "forget and begin over again." Sue is a sweet, entrancing, natural child, who gives color to every page. The Shaker life and philosophy are charmingly described.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYFOLDT.

OCTOBER 9, 1909.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

It has been suggested by the American Stationer that booksellers and stationers establish circulating libraries of puzzle pictures. Why not! This is in line with the lending of fiction, in the circulating libraries of bookstores, and should prove just as popular and profitable to the bookseller while the craze lasts. It has been figured out by those interested that a rental department would be the means of stimulating the sale of picture puzzles in a great many instances. And then, too, the continuous renting of the puzzles would finally bring in more actual cash for each puzzle than if they were sold outright.

It is easy to see why this is so. People who care enough about the fad to want to work one puzzle will, of course, buy new ones; but they will buy only about so many, which, after they are through with them, are exchanged with friends. People will lose interest after a while, if the pursuit of this pastime means a constant drain on their pocketbooks. Of course, twenty-five or fifty cents for a puzzle is not very much, but the man or woman who solves a puzzle in a few hours finds that the purchase of new ones at that rate soon becomes burdensome.

If these same people could take a puzzle to an "exchange" and by paying a small amount extra could get a new one, it would not be long before they had spent more in rental without feeling the expense than if they had bought only an occasional puzzle.

A "puzzle exchange," also, would mean a novel form of advertising for a bookseller's and stationer's place of business. If people learned that a bookseller rented as well as sold puzzles it is very probable that during frequent trips to the store the patrons of the "puzzle exchange" would see among the various articles displayed on the counters something they wanted. And doubtless a number of persons who have not become sufficiently interested to buy puzzles might be induced, on seeing how popular was the fad, to rent one in an experimental way.

On the boardwalk at Atlantic City, N. J., according to the American Stationer, a man not long ago opened such a renting establishment, and it has proved very profitable. Another case is that of a tea room in Fifth Avenue, New York. The "puzzle club" in that place now numbers over a hundred members, and the membership is increasing rapidly. Any one can become a member in one of three ways. First, by paying an initial fee of one dollar; second, by contributing to the exchange one puzzle of a hundred pieces or more, complete and in good condition, together with a fee of fifty cents; or third, by contributing two puzzles of one hundred pieces or one of three hundred pieces without additional deposit. The puzzles remain the property of the exchange. When a member brings back a puzzle not wholly complete in all its pieces or otherwise damaged he may substitute another one instead of paying for it. But in the case of a book or stationery store conducting an exchange this would practically mean the purchase of another puzzle on the premises.

In the matter of rental, the tea room has this plan: a member is entitled to take out puzzles one at a time, as often as desired, by paying fifteen cents for any puzzle containing not more than one hundred pieces; twenty cents for a puzzle containing not more than one hundred and fifty pieces, and a proportionate increase of five cents for every additional fifty pieces or less. A puzzle may be kept for one week. For a longer period a charge of two cents a day, or not over ten cents a week, is made. Of course more can be charged, according to the size of the puzzle. This exchange started with twenty-five puzzles, and there is no telling where the membership will stop.

In a recent decision of Judge Hoffheimer, of Cincinnati, there is an important obiter dictum with reference to copyright and patent monopoly. In the case of Freeman vs. Miller, in which a manufacturer of a face powder by a secret process sued a cut-rate druggist for violation of contract, it was claimed that a secret process is a natural monopoly similar to a patent or copyright. Judge Hoffheimer held to the contrary, pointing out that a patent or copyright has statutory limitation, for which period the Government guarantees monopoly, after which it is open to the public, while this is not true of a secret process, in which case the manufacturer is his own protector and cannot make contracts in restraint of trade which the courts should protect. This indicates the judge's opinion that patents and copyrights may be controlled by contract as to price without violating the law.

MANUFACTURERS OF SECRET PROCESSES CANNOT CONTROL PRICES.

In a decision handed down October 2, Judge Hoffheimer, of Cincinnati, defined a difference between the right of monopoly in a patented article under the protection of the patent law and an article manufactured under a secret process. He held that the establishing by contract of a fixed price for an article of the latter class at which it must arbitrarily be sold is a contract in restraint of trade contrary to public policy and the law, and therefore cannot be enforced by the courts.

The decision was in the case of W. D. Freeman against Raphael W. Miller to recover $21,600 in damages for alleged violation of contract. The allegation was that Freeman is the manufacturer of a face powder by a secret process; that he sold to Miller on a contract that he was to sell at retail only and at a given price, and not to any one who would put the powder on the market at a lower figure. This contract, he set up, is one which he required of every one handling his powder for the retail trade and was for the purpose of protecting his profits.

He further set up that in violation of this contract Miller had sold to Cora Dow and other druggists in the retail trade, and that they had put his commodity on the market at a price ruinous to him as a manufacturer.

To this petition Miller demurred on the ground that the contract was in violation of the common law and of the Valentine act.

For Freeman it was argued that a secret process is a natural monopoly, just as is a patent or copyright.

Judge Hoffheimer holds that it isn't; that a patent and copyright has statutory limitation and the Government guarantees monopoly only for that period, after which it is open; that a secret process is merely the secret of the manufacturer, and his for all time, so long as he can keep it concealed. He is his own protector and stands before the law just as does the manufacturer of any article, and may not arbitrarily fix a price for all the trade by a system of contracts with the vendors. For that reason he sustained the demurrer.

THE SIX SHILLING NOVEL AND ITS FUTURE.

"THE whole booktrade of England," according to Clement K. Shorter in the Chicago Dial, "has been very considerably agitated during the past three months by the question of the six-shilling novel and its future. It has long been insisted that for this country the sum of six shillings was too much to pay for a work of fiction that might be read in a few hours. It is true, of course, that not many years ago new novels were published here at five times the price—that is to say, in three volumes for thirty-one shillings sixpence. That system of three volumes had much to be said for it; the full story of the rise and growth of the three-volume novel has never been told.*

"Waverley," for example, the first great popular novel of the last century, was only in two volumes. Some of Sir Walter Scott's romances appeared in three volumes, and others in four volumes. Thackeray's 'Vanity Fair,' after it had been issued in parts, came out in one volume, although 'Esmond' appeared in two. Dickens's novels, as we know, usually appeared in monthly parts. It was nearer our own day that the three-volume novel became an institution, and all book collectors consider themselves happy if they possess certain of the novels of George Eliot, the Brontës, George Meredith, and, more recently, of Thomas Hardy and Henry James, in the three-volume form of their first editions. But before its final extinction, the three-volume novel, although it was delightful for reviewers on account of its large type, had become an encumbrance to the booksellers and a burden to the libraries. It survived, apparently, because the late Charles Edward Mudie, who ran the greatest circulating library in London, had entered into a compact with three publishers of many novels in their day—Tinsley, Bentley and Hurst & Blackett—by which he undertook to subscribe for a certain number of the novels issued by these firms. This arrangement considerably handicapped many of the younger publishing houses; and it was Mr. Heinemann who gave a death-blow to the system, by the publication of a novel of Hall Caine's in the six-shilling form.

"Mr. Heinemann has been destined, in this present year, to lead yet another movement in the direction of change, with what final result it is not possible at present to speak with any certainty. A few months ago Mr. Heinemann, in a speech addressed to booksellers, declared that it was obviously unfair that a novel of forty thousand words should be sold at the same price as a novel of one hundred thousand words. Therein he gave a hint of a scheme that he was about to put into practice. There is no doubt that the custom of producing novels of few words for the same price as long novels was having a demoralizing effect on the booktrade. The worst examples that I can recall are a story by Miss Olive Schreiner, and another by Maurice Hewlett. This last, I may add, was issued as a six-shilling book in spite of a protest from the author.

"Mr. Heinemann, then, has launched his new scheme; and again Hall Caine is the hero. His latest novel, 'The White Prophet,' which consists of one hundred thousand words, has been issued in two volumes for four shillings. Mr. Heinemann has followed this by two short novels, in single volumes, at two shillings each. In a few weeks we are to have, in the same series, Mr. William De Morgan's 'It Never Can Happen Again,' in two volumes, for six shillings net—this being a story of two hundred thousand words or more.

"As our booksellers are to get six shillings net for Mr. De Morgan's book, instead of the four shillings sixpence for which they usually sell a six-shilling novel, Mr. Heinemann will do very well if he sells as many copies as under the old system. So far, this second attempt at a revolution has not succeeded with the purchasers of fiction. . . ."

WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

THIS remaking of Webster's International Dictionary of 1890 and its Supplement of 1900 makes an essentially new dictionary, hereafter to be known as "Webster's New International Dictionary." For the past six years a large staff of editors has been at work on the revision under the general supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, former United States Commissioner of Education.

The basal principles in the construction of the "New International" have been: a fuller application of the historical method to the old words of the language; an enlargement of the vocabulary, representing the new coinage incident to the world's advance in science, art, literature, exploration, politics; and the addition of general information concerning things as well as words, making the dictionary not only linguistic, but in its measure encyclopedic.

The vocabulary has been greatly increased, and now numbers 400,000 words and phrases. To gain space the lesser known words have been separated from those in more common use, and are now printed at the bottom of each page, separated by a line from the general alphabet, in smaller type and in six columns instead of three. The many separate lists in the former edition such as Foreign phrases and proverbs, Scripture names, Names of fictitious persons, etc., have now been incorporated in the main alphabet. Only Biography and Geographical names still remain separate lists, as these change so often that it would not be practical to keep them in the body of the work.

Since 1843 this publishing house has perfected the work of Noah Webster, and the "New International Dictionary" bearing date of 1910 is a work of high scholarship and wide practical usefulness of which they may be justly proud. "Make the best" has been their motto regardless of expense.

JOHN DAVIDSON BURIED.

THE body of John Davidson, the poet, who was found dead a few weeks ago, was buried last week in the waters of Mount's Bay, Cornwall. Circumstances necessitated some alterations in the original arrangements for the ceremony. It had been planned that the body should be removed from the hut in which it lay at Mousehole, and transferred to a ship's lifeboat and rowed out to a waiting steam launch, to be taken some half a dozen miles from the shore for burial. But on this becoming known at Mousehole all the latent superstition of the local fish-folk was aroused, and active hostility was shown toward the proposal.

After some delay the body was taken to Penzance Harbor, where the Rev. Patrick Fagan, vicar of Newlyn, whose services had been retained for the funeral, awaited it.

In the presence of a knot of local sailors the coffin was taken to the water's edge and placed in a large ship's boat, which had been prepared for its reception. The coffin was of plain pitch pine, with brass mountings, and the breastplate bore the inscription: "John Davidson, died March 23, aged 52." It was accompanied by the poet's two sons and by three or four personal friends, who followed close behind in a punt, and boarded the steam launch in the middle of the harbor. The boat containing the coffin was quickly attached to the launch, which, with her little flag flying at half-mast, slowly towed it out into the bay.

The procession made its way out for some ten miles, and then a heavy weight was attached to the coffin and it was committed reverently to the deep.

DIARIES OF JOHN WESLEY.

ONE of the most remarkable achievements of recent literary research, which has just been completed, is the translation of a large number of John Wesley's original diaries and manuscripts which have been carefully collected in England and America.

These documents, the existence of which has grown mythical, were traced. Their contents were written in a curiously and elaborately abbreviated long hand, in obsolete shorthand and in a deeply complex and key-less cipher.

The Reverend Nehemiah Curnock, with the assistance of expert students spent four years in the work of deciphering the cipher used chiefly in an Oxford diary and relating to religious beliefs. The cipher for a long time baffled Mr. Curnock, but a missing letter at last came to him in a dream.

The documents throw a new and strange light on the development of Wesley's character, on his literary, political and social activity in America, on the part he played in the creation of a new church hymnology, and on his early life at Oxford.

New versions of early journals have come to light, including an account of the famous Georgian love affair. The discoveries will necessitate the rewriting of the great religious teacher's life.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. IN A NEW HOME.

IN growing cities it rarely happens that a family or a commercial concern is permitted to remain long undisturbed in one location. Either the quarters themselves are outgrown and become unaccommodating or the neighborhood deteriorates or does not keep pace with the development or prosperity of the family or the business. In the older and larger cities of the East, in this country, Boston perhaps has resisted radical changes in business localities longer than any other city. In New York certain trades, as the booktrade tive Boston, and for a decade has shaken it mightily.

The first shock received by the Boston booktrade was the disappearance of the Old Corner Bookstore from Washington Street. It is true W. B. Clarke had before this moved out of Washington Street into the basement of the old brimstone corner; but Clarke belonged to the younger generation, and was permitted greater latitude than his more venerable colleagues. Then the Old Archway Bookstore disappeared; sky-scrappers for example, have changed location so radically that very few of the present generation realize that first one section of the city—the extreme southern part at first, and then other sections were, at different epochs in the city's development, the centre of book publishing and bookselling. Not so long ago it was the lower part of Broadway and the abutting streets; then it was Astor Place with one or two bookstores as far up as Nineteenth Street. Next, Twenty-third Street was the centre, and now Forty-second Street promises to gather about it the more important publishers and booksellers.

Boston, the second most important book centre in the United States, has been less restless until comparatively few years ago. Cornhill is still the stamping ground of the old bookman, as it was nearly a century ago. The booksellers on Washington Street could be found at their old stands year after year for half a century or longer. The large publishing houses, it seemed, were rooted deep in their homes and bade fair to remain in them for generations to come. But the spirit of unrest seized even sedate and ultra-conservasupplanted the quaint old colonial houses, and what was once the haunt of the leisurely booklover and literary man-about-town became the home of loud evening papers with their hordes of boisterous venders, cheap restaurants and shops that catered to a miscellaneous clientage, not all of it of a refined character.

It is therefore hardly to be wondered at that those whose living depended upon a refined constituency were obliged to remove their shops further north and east with Beacon and Boylston Streets for centres. Among the last of the important houses to leave the "Old Corner" neighborhood is Little, Brown & Co., who, yielding to the necessity of obtaining adequate accommodations for their large and growing publishing business and separate offices for its various departments, are now settled in a home of their own at 34 Beacon Street, at the corner of Joy Street, overlooking the historic Common.

Charles C. Little and James Brown, from whom the present firm derives its name, succeeded Hilliard, Gray & Co. in 1837. The building which they occupied so long at 254 Washington Street, the second on the site, was erected by Harvard College in 1857. In the early 40's the noted book firm of Phillips & Sampson, of which William Lee, afterward of the firm of Lee & Shepard, was at one time a partner, occupied the second floor over Little, Brown & Co.'s store. Nearly opposite, at the corner of School Street, was for many years the famous house of Ticknor & Fields, and a few doors south of them T. O. H. Perry Burnham had his noted antiquarian bookstore.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.'S FIRST STORE, 112 WASHINGTON STREET.

At one time, two doors from Little, Brown & Co., were E. P. Dutton & Co., who for several years before they removed their business to New York were located at the Old Corner, where they were succeeded by A. W. Williams & Co. Other well-known houses in the neighborhood were Lee & Shepard, Crosby & Nichols, A. Williams & Co., who occupied the "Old Corner," Gould & Lincoln, Crocker & Brewster, and Monroe & Francis. Cornhill, near by, fairly swarmed with bookshops.

Some of these houses no longer exist, and others have one by one departed from the old book centre and transferred their business to other localities, so that this vicinity is no longer distinguished, as it once was, as the book section of Boston.

Beacon Hill is now a favorite locality for publishers and booksellers, as it once was for the leaders of Boston's aristocratic society. A few doors from Little, Brown & Co.'s new quarters are Ginn & Co., the educational publishers, while Houghton Mifflin Co. are situated a short distance away, on Park Street. The American Unitarian Association, the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society, and Small, Maynard & Co. are all located on Beacon Street, and the American Baptist Publication Society has moved to Ashburton Place, near by.

In their new quarters Messrs. Little, Brown & Company have secured ample facilities for conducting their business. The building, known as the Cabot house, was originally a dwelling house of the best sort, erected at a period when Beacon Hill represented the acme of Boston's wealth and culture. So large and high-studded are the rooms that they are admirably adapted for office uses, and practically no change was made in their plan. Thus the beautifully carved woodwork, the imported marble fireplaces, the tapestried walls have been retained in all their original beauty, while such rooms as have required renovating have been treated with a careful regard to the maintenance of harmony in color and general effect. From their large stock of original illustrations Little, Brown & Company have selected a fine assortment of pictures, and the walls are hung with representative works of the leading illustrators of the day. As a result the five floors devoted to office purposes are not only remarkably well equipped for the firm's purposes, but are, in addition, unusually attractive.

On the ground floor is located a finely-appointed bookroom for the sale of books at retail. The rich colors of the fine bindings are in glowing contrast to the dark oak of the huge bookcases. On this floor also are the commodious salesrooms of the law department.

On the second floor is the suite of offices for the members of the firm, and the dignity of the former drawing-rooms is well maintained by the beautiful mahogany office furniture which has replaced the sofas and chairs of the former occupant. The long French windows open onto the little balcony typical of the Boston house of a century ago.

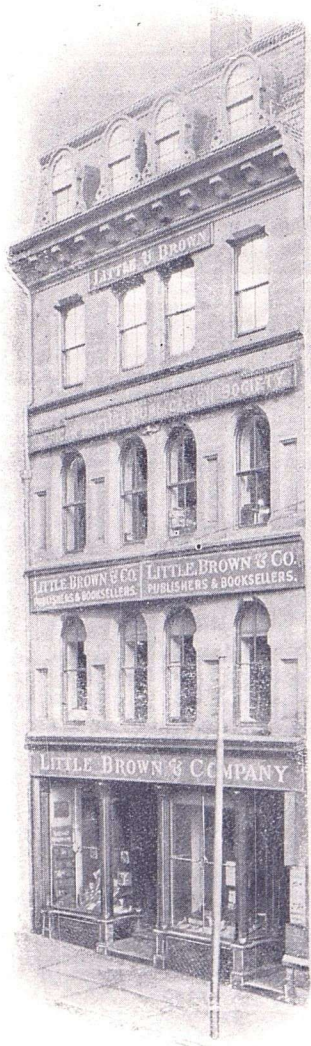

The publishing and advertising departments and the counting-room occupy the other rooms on this floor, and the old dining room which no doubt, in its day, echoed to the mirth of diners, now is a scene of constant activity of a far different nature.

The third floor provides quarters for the manufacturing and art departments, the offices of the wholesale department, and an attractive sample room, which is a magnet to all visitors.

The fourth floor is occupied by the growing educational and subscription departments. The rooms on the fifth floor are in part devoted to the storage of books and supplies.

A word must be said of the entrance, which has been retained as originally built. The clipped box-trees in the vestibule and the rich stained glass of the inner door establish the keynote of the house almost at once, and this atmosphere of dignity and beauty is maintained throughout the entire building.

Immediately in the rear of the building, on Joy Street, and connected with the office building, there has been erected a spacious five-story annex for the wholesale and shipping departments. The firm's bindery and warehouse is in Cambridge, and their larger shipments of books are made at this point.

The removal of Little, Brown & Co. recalls the fact that this is the oldest publishing house in Boston and one of the oldest in America—its origin dating back to 1784, when Ebenezer Battelle kept a bookstore in Marlborough Street, then that part of Washington Street, south of School and north of Eliot Streets.

Three years later, in 1787, Benjamin Guild purchased the Battelle business, and carried it on as the Boston Book Store, at 59 Cornhill, (now Washington Street, north of School Street,) and afterwards at No. 1 Cornhill, on the north corner of Spring Lane. In 1792 Samuel Cabot became the proprietor, and continued the business until 1797, when William P. and Lemuel Blake, who succeeded him, began a publishing business in addition to selling books and stationery. They were succeeded in 1806 by William Andrews, who conducted the business until his death in 1813. Then Jacob A. Cummings, who taught a private school in Cambridge, and William Hilliard, a printer and proprietor of the Harvard University Book Store, became the purchasers. With these proprietors Timothy H. Carter entered as an apprentice, and in 1821 he was admitted as a partner, and practically ran the business. He advertised for a clerk, and Charles C. Little was hired.

When Mr. Cummings died and Mr. Carter had withdrawn from the firm, Mr. Harrison

JOHN MURRAY BROWN.

Gray came in, and in 1827 a new firm, under the title of Hilliard, Gray & Co., was formed, the company being Mr. Little. The firm name for a time also was Hilliard, Gray, Little & Wilkins.

In 1830 the firm sold its stand and part of its stock to William Hyde, and moved to 112 Washington Street, afterwards changed to number 254. Here it greatly increased its business in the publication of law books and the importation of foreign works. In 1837 Charles C. Little and James Brown, (of the firm of Hilliard & Brown, who kept the University Book Store at Cambridge,) became the proprietors, the firm name being Charles C. Little and James Brown, afterwards changed to Little, Brown & Co.

Charles C. Little was born in Kennebunk, Me., July 25, 1799, and died in Cambridge in 1869. His career as a business man was a long and honorable one, marked by integrity, uprightness and great prudence. James Brown was born in Acton, Mass., in 1800, and at the age of eighteen began as clerk and assistant in Hilliard's Cambridge bookstore. He was but twenty-six years old when he became a member of the firm of Hilliard & Brown. He died suddenly in 1855, his death coming as a great shock to the bookselling world generally. Mr. Brown was a man of fine presence and affable manner, cultivated and liberal. At the time of his death he had won the enviable distinction of being considered the most representative member of the American booktrade. He had charge of the foreign importations, while Mr. Little had control of the law book department.

After Mr. Brown's death, Augustus Flagg, who entered the employ of Little & Brown when he was twenty-one, and who was admitted to partnership in 1846, became purchaser abroad of foreign books for the house. From 1869, when Mr. Little died, to the time of his retirement from business, in 1883, Mr. Flagg was the managing partner, and no one was better acquainted with the booktrade of a half century ago. He was succeeded by John Bartlett, author of "Familiar Quotations," and other works. On Mr. Bartlett's retirement, John Murray Brown, the youngest son of James Brown, named for the famous English publisher, John Murray, became the senior partner and remained at the head of the firm until his death in April, 1908, maintaining the high publishing standard which his father and associates had established.

In the present firm are associated Charles W. Allen, James W. McIntyre and Hulings C. Brown, who, through years of training in this house, and backed by its traditions, are carrying the work along on the same lines, but are gradually widening and broadening their scope.

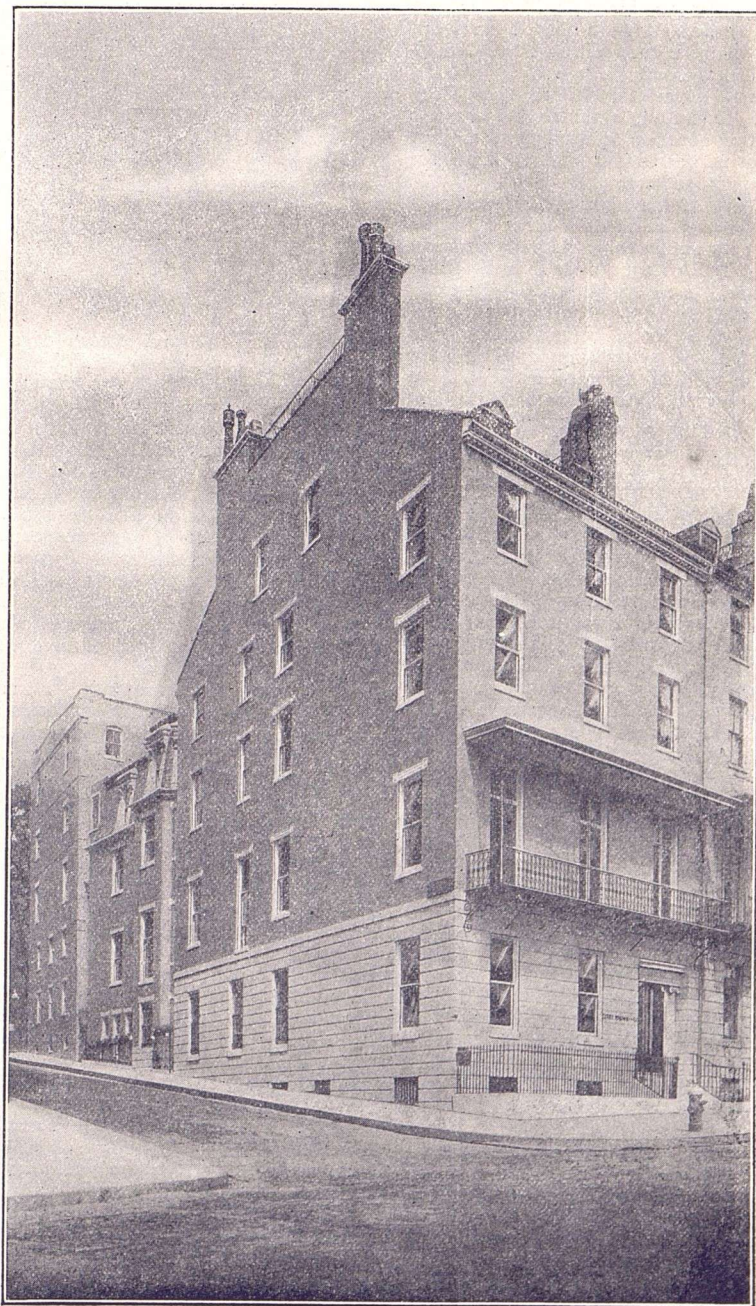

The firm has long ranked with the world's foremost publishers of the works of standard authors, and books of history, biography, travel, description, belles-lettres, poetry, domestic science, as well as popular fiction, both adult and juvenile. Perhaps no house has brought out more of the works of famous American statesmen. Their lists of publications have long been noted for their solid, substantial character. In the earlier days they brought out the "Life and Works of Washington" by Jared Sparks, in twelve volumes; Sparks's "American Biography," in twenty-five volumes, and the works of John Adams, Edward Everett and Daniel Webster. The publication of the work of the greatest American historian, Francis Parkman, alone would have made this firm famous, but other successful ventures included the publishing of Captain A. T. Mahan's epoch-making books on "The Influence of Sea Power," and the translations of the novels of Henryk Sienkiewicz. Their edition of Dumas has been accepted in England as well as in America as the standard edition of this great French author.

Little, Brown & Co. has been almost from its beginnings a leading publishing firm of law books in America, comprising in its lists such famous authorities as Kent, Story and Greenleaf, among the early law writers, and a majority of the notable and standard legal authors of the last quarter of a century. By acquiring the publishing business of Roberts Brothers, in 1898, Little, Brown & Co. came into possession of many authors and books of widely-recognized literary worth. Included in the list taken over were Miss Wormeley's excellent translation of Balzac's works and the writings of such authors as Louisa M. Alcott, Dr. Edward Everett Hale, Helen Hunt Jackson, Emily Dickinson, Susan Coolidge, Louise Chandler Moulton, Lilian Whiting, Annie Payson Call, Mary W. Tiles-ton, Mary J. Lincoln, Mary P. Wells Smith, and many others. Nearly 3,000,000 copies of "Little Women" and Miss Alcott's other stories have been sold and although the author died in 1888 they are the most popular juvenile books to-day.

More recent writers whose books are now in active demand include E. Phillips Oppenheim, the favorite English novelist; Sidney McCall, author of "Truth Dexter;" Mary Devereux, the late Lafcadio Hearn, Laura E. Richards, the late Jeremiah Curtin, author, and translator of the works of Sienkiewicz as well; Mary E. Waller, author of "The Woodcarver of 'Lympus,'" Anne Warner, the creator of "Susan Clegg" and "Aunt Mary;"

Maud Howe, Anna Chapin Ray, Maud Wilder Goodwin, Eliza Calvert Hall, author of "Aunt Jane of Kentucky," and Fannie Merritt Farmer, author of the famous "Boston Cooking School Cook Book."

At present there are over 1200 different titles of books in the general catalogue of the firm, while the number and importance of the law and educational publications have been constantly increasing.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.'S NEW HOME AT 34 BEACON STREET.

TEACHING IN SCHOOLS TO MINIMIZE WAR.

THE plans of Edwin Ginn, of the firm of Ginn & Co., to promulgate universal peace are matured. It is Mr. Ginn's ambition to see established what he calls an International School of Peace. He is ready to make an annual contribution of $50,000 to such a school, and to endow it ultimately.

For a long time Mr. Ginn has had two persons at work on his ideas. They are Edwin D. Mead and Miss Anna B. Eckstein, both of whom have recognition in the cause of universal peace.

Mr. Ginn believes that there should be a Bureau of Education, which should attempt to modify the courses of study in schools, colleges and universities so as to minimize the achievements of war.

Another part of his plan is the establishment by the Government of a school for the education of its public servants and a bureau under the control of a Cabinet officer, whose duty it should be to study broadly international relations.

"The time may come," Mr. Ginn said to a New York Times correspondent, "I hope speedily, when the Minister of Peace will be regarded as of much importance to the human race as the Minister of War."

NELSON'S NEW CENTURY LIBRARY.

THE little books that form Nelson's Century Library now number 113 separate volumes, covering Shakespeare, Scott, Thackeray, Dickens, Jane Austen, George Eliot, the Brontës, Robert Burns and Victor Hugo complete, besides several volumes of selected works of the best authors. Victor Hugo's eight volumes are the last to take their place with the India paper that makes them fit into such small space and their rich full flexible leather binding. The publishers have planned a scheme that will no doubt appeal strongly to many members of the trade. They are getting up an order list of this library, printed on fine paper with portraits of the authors who appear in this edition and pictures of the pretty books, and they will furnish these circulars to booksellers in quantities with their own imprint to distribute among their customers during the holiday season.

DR. COOK CALLS ON COL. HARVEY.

DR. FREDERICK A. COOK, the discoverer of the North Pole, dropped into Deal Beach, N. J., on October 3, to call on Colonel George Harvey, of Harper & Brothers, who is confined to his home as the result of a recent automobile accident. Colonel Harvey's automobile met the doctor at the station, and later conveyed him to Trenton, where he caught an express train for Washington. Colonel Harvey said later to a reporter of the New York Times, that Dr. Cook's visit was purely a social one, they being old friends. Reports had it that the conference had for its subject the sale of Dr. Cook's book rights.

COMMUNICATIONS.

DOES THE REQUIREMENT OF AN EXCESSIVE PURCHASE IN ORDER TO SECURE A LIVING DISCOUNT PAY?

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: The above question was suggested by a conversation which I heard recently. The speaker was the buyer for the stationery department of a store which has not yet arrived at the full proportions of a department store, but which still keep a very respectable stock of books of the class which the regular department store or book "butcher" of any sort does not ordinarily think it worth his while to handle.

The buyer in question had very little knowledge of the book business, but he was meeting a proposition like this: a traveller for a manufacturer of papeteries offered him a thousand boxes at the rate of 17 cents. The buyer remarked that he would take a hundred at the thousand rate. The dealer demurred; but the offer was repeated, and was again declined. It was repeated a third time, and the buyer said: "I am buying $500 worth of other stationery from you; I am adding to my purchase one hundred boxes such as you are showing me, and I insist that I buy as low as the department store in the next block, which will take the thousand boxes and will not buy $500 worth of other goods, while I am buying your other stationery at all times during the year."

The subject was submitted to the head of the house, and the word came back, "Sell the goods. The man is right. I will never have a quantity price again."

The buyer went on to say that another manufacturer of papeteries, the direct rival of the first one, made a similar offer and the offer was handled in exactly the same way. The house, however, being organized as a corporation, the decision upon the subject was not made so quickly. It was made finally, and it agreed in every particular with the decision made by the house already mentioned.

It seems as though the publishers fail to treat the man who handles their various publications as they treat a few houses who buy very large quantities of a very few titles.

This seems to me a subject for the consideration of both the publisher and retailer.

OBITUARY NOTES.

DUDLEY BUCK died October 6 at West Orange, N. J., at the age of seventy-seven. Mr. Buck left almost no field of musical composition untouched, but it is his legacy of sacred music which is most valuable. He enriched church music with innumerable chorals, anthems and voluntaries, together with cantatas and oratorios, and contributed greatly to the dignity and quality of American religious music. Mr. Buck was born in Hartford, Conn., March 10, 1839. He was organist of Holy Trinity Church, in Brooklyn, N. Y., for nearly twenty-five years. His largest published works are "The Golden Legend," which won a $1000 prize, and "The Light of Asia."

LUCIUS H. BIGELOW, until 1897 senior member of the firm of Bigelow & Main, music publishers, New York, died suddenly at his summer home in Ridgefield, Conn., at the age of seventy-two.

ALBERT PULTIZER, brother of Joseph Pulitzer, the editor and publisher of the New York World, killed himself at his apartment in Vienna on October 4. Mr. Pulitzer was born at Mako, Hungary, July 10, 1851. While still a boy he came to this country and settled in Kansas City, later in St. Louis. In 1882 he founded the New York Morning Journal, now Hearst's American, who acquired the property in 1895. Since then Mr. Pulitzer had lived mainly in Europe. Among his writings was "Le Roman de Prince Eugène." He leaves a son, Walter Pulitzer, a writer, principally of poetry, who lives in New York.

CHANG-CHIH-TUNG, the Chinese Grand Councillor, died on October 5 at Peking. Chang-Chih-Tung, one of the great men of the Chinese Empire, who was a leader in all recent progressive movements, may be remembered by English readers through his book, "China's Only Hope," brought out some years ago in a translation by the Rev. S. I. Woodbridge by Fleming H. Revell Company. At the time it was published it was heralded as the most remarkable book written by a Chinaman during the past six hundred years. In two years it reached a circulation of over a million copies in China, and in England and this country the sale was quite a considerable one.

EDMOND KELLY, prominent as a lawyer, author and lecturer both in this country and abroad, died at his home on North Mountain, Nyack, N. Y., on October 4. Mr. Kelly was born in New York City in 1851 and studied in Columbia College and at Cambridge. He made his home abroad for nearly thirty years, returning to this country two years ago. While engaged in the practice of law in Paris Mr. Kelly undertook the cause of Anna Gould, the Princess de Sagan, in the winning of a divorce from Count Boni de Castellane. During the years spent abroad Mr. Kelly entered the literary field, being the author of several law treatises, among which are, "Evolution and Government" and "The French Law of Marriage." He also interested himself in the study of Socialism and returned to America to devote himself to further investigation.

DR. GEORGE EDWARD POST, for many years head professor of the medical college in the Syrian Protestant College at Beirut, Asia Minor, died on October 1. Dr. Post was born in New York, December 17, 1838, and was graduated from the Free Academy, now the College of the City of New York, in 1854. In 1860 he completed his medical course in the University of New York and a year later entered the Union Theological Seminary. Among his works, written by him in various languages, are: "Flora of Syria, Palestine and Egypt," "Text-Book of Mammalia," "Text-Book of Botany," "Translation in Arabic of Butler's Physiology," "Text-Book of Surgery," "Text-Book of Materia Medica," and the "Dictionary of the Bible." He contributed largely also to Smith's, Hastings, Jacobus's and Barnes's Dictionaries of the Bible, and to the Sunday-School World of Philadelphia.

FREDERICK RUSSELL BURTON, journalist, novelist and musical composer, died on September 30 at Landing, Morris County, N. J. Mr. Burton was born February 23, 1861, at Jonesville, Mich., and was graduated with highest honors in music and other honors from Harvard University in 1882. While in college Mr. Burton wrote many songs and choruses, and an ode written by him at the time of the second inauguration of President McKinley attracted attention. He collected songs of the Ojibways and also collected folk-songs of other Indian tribes, which were published under the titles of "Songs of the Ojibway Indians," "An Indian Campfire" and "Hiawatha." His research work in this line took him to many of those parts of the United States and Canada in which Indians live. "Strongheart," a novelization of the play in which Robert Edson appeared several seasons ago, and "Redcloud of the Lakes," both published by G. W. Dillingham Company, were Mr. Burton's notable contributions to the department of fiction. "Redcloud of the Lakes" received high praise from such authorities as Francis E. Leupp, George Bird Grinnell and Charles G. D. Roberts as a work of quite unusual educational and literary merit. For several years Mr. Burton lived in Yonkers, N. Y., where he was a member of the Board of Education. He joined the Sun staff several years ago, and was at work and apparently well a few hours before he died.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CINCINNATI, O.—The business of the Robert Clarke Company's bookstore which was recently closed out at receiver's sale to W. K. Stewart, of Indianapolis, will be reorganized under the same name. The company was chartered at Columbus on September 22 by Ben B. Dale, Roderick D. Barney, Alexander Hill and E. C. Drach. It will have $50,000 capital. The business will be continued as at present, but Mr. Stewart will be president of the corporation.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—W. Millard Palmer has given up his old store and moved into a larger one on the opposite side of the street.

NEW YORK CITY.—We learn from the New York Times that "through the notifications sent to the Stock Exchange [October 4] of a proposed capital increase of $3,000,000 in the stock of the Butterick Company, publishers of The Delineator, The Designer, and The New Idea Woman's Magazine, it became known in Wall Street that the stockholders have been called to a special meeting on October 19 to vote on the question of raising the capital from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000. President Wilder refused to discuss the purposes of the increase of capitalization or to say whether the stock was to be sold or distributed as a stock dividend. The . . . chief interest of the financial district in the matter was speculation as to how much a distribution of a stock dividend or of rights to subscribe would help C. W. Morse's climbing back to solvency. Mr. Morse at one time held about $2,000,000 of the company's total capitalization of $12,000,000, and before the panic, when he was straining every resource to get cash, these shares were put up as collateral. It was learned that the Morse Securities Company, the $10,000,000 Maine corporation which he organized as a means of recovering the scattered fragments of his former fortune, has succeeded in recovering only a small part of the Butterick stock he once possessed.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—C. R. Andrews, bookseller, is about to remove from Water Street to No. 8 North Main Street.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—John J. Newbegin, a bookseller who for some time has been located in a good location near the foot of Market Street for transient business, has decided, according to the correspondent of the Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer, that he prefers a more conservative and steady trade, and so he has secured a location on Sutter Street, near Grant Avenue, where he will cater to the higher class of trade. This is in the centre of the best trading and shopping of the rebuilt city, and is the location near which most of the big bookstores—Paul Elder & Co., A. M. Robertson & Co., the New Book Store, and the White House—have located.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—A. K. Cox will move his bookstore from the Douglas House block to the store formerly occupied by Roach & Seeber.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE English "Reference Catalogue" will be ready early next year—probably in March or April. It has been decided to bring the work out in three volumes, the first to consist of the Index, which in the last edition extended to nearly 1000 pages. The price of the work is to be five dollars net, subject to an advance in price after publication day. American subscribers are requested to register their orders with the Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, which will be the American agents for the work.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

REILLY & BRITTON announce as ready now the gorgeous color juvenile, "Yama Yama Land," which they have promised so long, with text by Grace Duffie Boylan and brilliant illustrations in fine combination of colors.

As we go to press the news reaches us that R. H. Macy & Co. have brought suit, under the Sherman Act, in the U. S. Circuit Court, to recover $375,000 damages from the American Publishers' Association on allegation that the Association is a combination in restraint of trade.

CHARLES L. BOWMAN, of Charles L. Bowman & Co., Brunswick Building, 225 Fifth Avenue, New York, on his recent trip abroad picked up a unique collection of about sixty of the original sketches made by Hablot K. Brown for some of the stories of Charles Dickens.

A HANDSOME tribute has just been paid to a book recently published by Thomas Y. Crowell & Co.—"The Young Man's Affairs," by Charles Reynolds Brown. A lady in California asks that a copy be sent, at her expense, to every prominent college library in the United States.

E. BYRNE HACKETT, well and favorably known to the trade as the representative of Doubleday, Page & Co. and more recently as in charge of the literary and publishing department of The Baker & Taylor Company, will retire from that firm on January 1. Mr. Hackett is maturing plans towards establishing himself in business, of which information will be forthcoming later.

LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY have just ready the third printing of "The Land of Long Ago," Alice Calvert Hall's new "Aunt Jane" book, in which she again faithfully reproduces the atmosphere of Old Kentucky; and E. Phillip Oppenheim's new novel of love and intrigue, entitled "Jeanne of the Marshes," a story of endless complications in which a subterranean tunnel leading to the sea plays an important part.

STURGIS & WALTON have just ready the Bi-Centenary edition of Boswell's "Life of Samuel Johnson," in two volumes, with twelve photogravure plates and 640 text illustrations newly edited, with notes, etc., by Roger Ingpen, who has also carefully selected the authentic pictures, drawing wisely from Reynolds, Gainsborough and Romney, and giving the book special value as a collection of eighteenth century portraits.

THE GORHAM PRESS, Boston, will publish at once Will Payne's "The Automatic Capitalists," dedicated to nobody, because, as the author says, "a dedication would hardly be complimentary inasmuch as it relates the doings of two scamps, who, being unwilling to fail for $317.23, manipulate a gas bond, borrowed without the owner's consent, and other bonds fraudulently obtained, until they were able to fail for millions, which is far more respectable and wins more respect."

FORBES & COMPANY, Chicago, will publish this month "What Does Christmas Really Mean?" by John T. McCutcheon and Jenkin

Lloyd Jones, a dialogue between a mother and child on the real meaning of Christmas; "Maroon Tales," by Will J. Cuppy, a book of University of Chicago stories brilliantly told by an alumnus and gifted writer; "A Girl Wanted," by Helen Haskins, companion story to "A Boy Wanted," by Nixon Waterman; and "The Saints and Sinners Calendar for 1910."

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have just sent in "Old Fashioned Fairy Tales," retold from the poetic version of Tom Hood by Marion Foster Washburne, illustrated by Margaret Ely Webb. Little Red Riding Hood, Puss in Boots, The Sleeping Beauty and Hop-o'-My-Thumb fill the volume—tales that have pleased from generation to generation. Miss Mulock's little classic, "The Little Lame Prince and His Travelling Cloak," with pictures by Hope Dunlap, is also ready for the holidays.

MOFFAT, YARD & COMPANY have the second printing under way of George Wharton Edwards's "Holland of To-day," and in view of all the new interest in the little country that has done such big things for the whole world, is sure of a continuous sale in all parts of the land; Edith Rickerts's "The Beggar in the Heart" holds its own as a novel of originality and distinction; and Elizabeth Robins's "The Florentine Frame" is almost ready to take its place among the big novels of the season. This author always is good, and here she is better.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have now ready the "Recollections of Grover Cleveland," by George F. Parker, which is an interesting and valuable narrative of the great President who represented the United States with such dignity before the world; "Dry-Farming: Its Principles and Practice," by William Macdonald, dealing with the two fundamental problems of conservation of moisture, and the maintenance of soil fertility; "The Training of Farmers," by Liberty H. Bailey, of Cornell University; and the new Thumb-nail volume, devoted to "Great Hymns of the Middle Ages."

SHERMAN, FRENCH & Co. will soon issue a book of which the title will be announced with bated breath by many persons, inasmuch as it is "A Mission to Hell." The author, the Rev. Edward Eells, a Congregationalist minister, takes his hero, Nathaniel Prester, a former Presbyterian minister, redeemed by grace, into the place of torment, and describes what he saw there: such swarms of the condemned that peace and privacy were non-existent; warring religions, disquieting secret orders, personages well known on earth, and a triumphant struggle with the powers of darkness. The time is A.D. 2600.

PRESTON & ROUNDS Co., Providence, R. I., have just ready "Sir Henry Vane, Jr., Governor of Massachusetts and Friend of Roger Williams and Rhode Island," by Henry Melville King, Pastor Emeritus of the First Baptist Church, Providence, R. I., a fresh interpretation of one of the most interesting characters of the English Commonwealth, who strove so valiantly for freedom of conscience in England and New England. His portrait stands out amid the confusion and struggle of his time, calm, serene, consistent, heroic. This well-written book will help to make real to the present generation one who was a vital force in one of the greatest movements in modern history.

JOHN LANE COMPANY have at last been able to print enough of Ingraham Lovell's often postponed story, "Margarita's Soul," to fulfil the first large demand and the book appears this week. Its author writes under a pseudonym, and Edith Wharton, Booth Tarkington, Ida Tarbell and W. J. Locke are all suspected. It is an American story, but the heroine having been kept like Miranda on an island finally sees her share of the world and learns her lesson of living among her kind in a most interesting manner. The publishers have made a pretty book with 16 full-page illustrations, numerous marginal drawings by J. Scott Williams and Whistler butterfly decorations.

B. W. DODGE & Co. have just ready a volume containing The Delineator's "Prize $3000 Houses." The book gives the complete plans, together with perspectives and plans for landscaping, etc., for practical use by the prospective house or bungalow builder. The information brought together in this volume has in large part been derived from plans and designs furnished by prominent architects who competed in The Delineator's prize offer, and in each case comprises detailed directions for building and furnishing and careful estimates of cost. They also announce a collection of some of the earlier stories by Rudyard Kipling not yet brought out in book form. The book will be entitled "Abaft the Funnel."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just issued "Through the French Provinces," written and illustrated by Ernest Peixotto; "Home Letters of General," edited by M. A. De Wolfe; "The American of the Future and Other Essays," by Brander Matthews; "The Mystery of Education and Other Academic Performances," by Barrett Wendell; "How to Be Happy Though Civil," by Rev. E. J. Hardy, who has his old touch of humor such as delighted his readers in "How to Be Happy Though Married;" "John Chinaman at Home," etc. It was while travelling in the East that the writer realized how much more civil the Eastern people are than the inhabitants of more civilized Western people, and he now attempts to help his people mend their manners.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have just brought out the Fitzgerald Centenary edition of "The Rubáiyát." In its preparation the best skill and resources of the publishers were placed at the disposal of the artist, Willy Pogany, who was given carte blanche in his pictorial treatment of the text, of which he also did the entire lettering by hand. The coloring is faithfully Oriental, and the type a copy of Arabic characters. No two pages are alike, and each is lithographed in at least two colors. In addition there are twenty-four full-page illustrations executed in full color and accurately reflecting the spirit of the verses and the Eastern atmosphere. In a word, this is distinctively an artist's édition de luxe, and a volume which the pronounced booklover has but to see in order to covet.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have issued this week Charles Major's new novel, "A Gentle Knight of Old Brandenburg," the scene of which is laid at the court of the father of Frederick the Great; "A Lady of the Old Regime," (the sister-in-law of Louis XIV.,) by Ernest F. Henderson, gives a vivid picture of Versailles in the days of the Grand Monarque; "The Old Town," by Jacob A. Riis, gives an interesting picture of the old Danish town of Ribe, the birthplace of the author, for which W. T. Benda furnishes sixty pictures; and "The Book of Christmas," consisting of the best things that have been written about Christmas, with introduction by Hamilton W. Mabie, and reproductions of the celebrated pictures of great masters and decorative drawings by George Wharton Edwards.

PAUL ELDER & COMPANY, San Francisco, have a book designed for a wedding gift in "The House That Jack Built," with text illuminated in mediæval style by Robert Wilson Hyde, a craftsman artist of the mission town of Santa Barbara, California, who heretofore has confined his work chiefly to hand illuminated volumes of classic parchment. This book requires eleven printings to secure the full complement of color. "The Remembrance Guest Book," by Arthur Guiterman, and Robert Wilson Hyde, is a reproduction, in convenient size, of the "Craftsman Guest-book," formerly published by Elder & Co. Robert Williams Wood will bring out a novel adaptation of his work "How to Tell Your Partners," (for dinners, card parties and other social functions,) and his "Birds and Flowers" and "Animal Analogies" will also appear in new editions.

THE DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY announce a very interesting and valuable publication, consisting of a series of reproductions of typical examples of the leading schools of painting in the National Gallery of London. The unique feature of this series is that the paintings selected are reproduced not only in line and composition, but in color and tone, so that the student or art-lover has before him what is practically a reduced facsimile of the original. The collection begins with the earliest Italian masters, coming down through the periods of Botticelli, Perugino, Raphael, Correggio and Titian, to the Flemish and German schools of a later date. The explanatory and critical text is by such well-known authorities as Brockwell, Konody and Lippmann. The series will be complete in seventeen parts, of which nine are now ready, each containing about 30 pages, and six colored plates, or may be had later bound in a single volume.

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY promise four novels of great merit to be published during the current month. "The Shadow Between His Shoulder Blades," by Joel Chandler Harris, illustrated by George Harding, tells of two soldiers in the late war between the States who rode out to join General Forrest, crossed the trail of a spy and later met with romantic adventures that led to a dramatic climax; "Marie of Arcady," by F. Hewes Lancaster, has its scene in the basin of a bayou along the lower Mississippi, remote from the world and the century, where dwell the Cajan people, the exiles of the Evangeline legend, of whom the writer tells a story of great quaintness; "Old Clinkers: a Story of the New York Fire Department," by Harvey J. O'Higgins, illustrated by Martin Justice; and "The Chronicles of Rhoda," by Florence Tinsley Cox, illustrated in full color by Jessie Willcox Smith, one of those delightful books about children written for grown-ups, of which "Emmy Lou" was such a bewitching example.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just issued a revised and amplified edition of "Washington, Its Sights and Insights," by Mrs. Harriet Earhart Monroe, a work that has enjoyed increasing popularity since first published some years back. In this edition the contents have been changed and brought to date and the cover design and most of the illustrations are new. It is a very interesting and instructive book upon the national capital by one who understands the art of imparting valuable information in an entertaining manner. Reading Mrs. Monroe's book is like visiting Washington in company with a bright, lively and lovable woman who knows not only the history but the meaning of every monument and institution, and who, with broad patriotism, can connect the spirit of all with that of our great country. The author is not content merely to describe the architecture of the government buildings. She vividly depicts the work that is carried on within and the system of administration in each department.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have ready this week Robert Hichens's long-promised "Bella Donna," for the scene of which the author has again gone to Africa. The high praise accorded it by eminent critics, who read the work in manuscript, aroused unusual interest in the volume, and the first large edition was sold ten days before publication. The publishers immediately arranged for a second large edition, so that no one would be disappointed on publication day. The announcement comes this week that Lieutenant Shackleton's account of his expedition to the South Pole will bear the title of "The Heart of the Antarctic." Rapid progress is being made in the manufacture of the book, and it will be published simultaneously in America and England, as originally announced, in November. They issued last week "Longshore Boys," by W. O. Stoddard, Jr.; "Missionary Heroes in Africa," by John C. Lambert; "Stories from Greek Legends," by C. G. Hartley; "In Japan," by G. Migeon; "The Wonders of Mechanical Ingenuity," by Coupin and Lea; "The Wonders of Asiatic Exploration," by A. Williams; and "The Wonders of the Plant World," by G. F. Scott Elliot.

THE fortunes of Polar exploration have forced Harry Whitney, the New Haven sportsman, into the foreground. He was the first white man to greet Dr. Cook on his return from the Pole, and the first, aside from the members of his own party, to welcome Commander Peary. In addition, he has spent nearly two years in Greenland and Ellesmere Land, hunting arctic game in a region hitherto unvisited by white hunters. His story would be of great interest in and of itself; in view of the importance which Mr. Whitney's testimony has assumed in the present controversy, it will have a double value. When Mr. Whitney landed at Truro, Nova Scotia, the Outing Publishing Company had a representative on the spot, and two days after he landed on Canadian soil a contract had been closed with him for the publication of his narrative. Mr. Whitney will tell the story of his two years' hunt in the shadow of the Pole, and will also describe the dramatic moments that saw the return of the two Pole seekers from their great quest. Mr. Whitney has brought back with him one of the best collections of photographs of the Far North that has ever been made. His story will be begun in the December issue of The Outing Magazine.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "What Have the Greeks Done for Modern Civilization?" the Lowell lectures of 1908-9, by John P. Mahaffy, the eminent scholar of Trinity College, Dublin, who has all his life devoted himself to the study of things Hellenic and here sums up his conclusions regarding the modern world's political, social, literary, artistic and philosophical inheritance from the Greeks; "A Woman of a State University," an illustration of the working of a co-education in the Middle West, by Helen R. Olin, who describes 40 years of the education of women in the University of Wisconsin, the relation of this education to public service and its claim to public support; "An American Transportation System: a Criticism of the Past and Present and a Plan for the Future," by George A. Rankin, the new volume in the Questions of the Day series; and "In Starland with a Three-Inch Telescope," a conveniently arranged guide for the use of the amateur astronomer, by William Tyler Olcott, author of "A Field Book of the Stars." In fiction they have just ready "Toil of Men," by I. Querids; and "Yzdra," a tragedy in three acts, by L. Vernon Ledoux. For young people they have "Giant-Land," by Roland Quix, which recounts the adventures of Top Pippin in a land of wonders and was very popular fifty years ago, a fact which makes the publishers reprint it with illustrations redrawn and enlarged from the originals. The long expected and often announced "Madame, Mother of the Regent," by Arvène Barine, is also ready.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish during the month "Ann Veronica," by H. G. Wells, a story of the unrest of modern woman, brought about by their not realizing that they never can be men, and that the only thing that truly satisfies a woman will always be marriage and maternity; "The Involuntary Chaperone," by Margaret Cameron, an artistic story in the form of letters written to a woman friend by a young widow, a story full of humor, color and sentiment; "The Valor of Ignorance," by General Homer Lea, proving how unprepared the United States are for War; "Ant Communities," by Henry C. McCook; and "The Swiss Family Robinson," by Johann David Wyss, with introduction by William Dean Howells and illustrations made in the Tropics by Louis Rhead. They have just ready English Spelling and Spelling Reform," by Thomas R. Lounsberry, a book addressed to the average intelligent reader, advocating spelling reform and especially intended to remove "the unintelligent opposition of the intelligent," which masquerades as loyalty to traditions, and giving considerable space to the explanation of phonetic spelling. John Kendrick Bangs's new volume, entitled "The Real Thing and Other Forces," contains besides the title play, "The Barringtons at Home," "The Return of Christmas" and "The Side-Show," all full of wit and good-tempered satire; and Ruth McEnery Stuart has "Carlotta's Intended" in a pretty Forget-me-not edition. All children will rejoice that Gertrude Smith has written a new story, under the captivating title, "When Roggie and Reggie Were Five," showing these little favorites in their beautiful country home in California and later letting them see Washington. Henrietta Adams has been very fortunate in her illustrations.

DODD, MEAD & Co. publish to-day a goodly number of books in all departments of literature. "Diamonds Cut Paste," by Agnes and Egerton Castle, is a story of most original and clever intrigue in which Sir Reginald Esdale, just returned from India, and a pretty, clinging widow are chief actors; "The Island of Regeneration" tells one of Cyrus Townsend Brady's clever stories of a young woman adrift on a desert island where she finds a solitary savage inhabitant, whom she proceeds to educate, with many consequences; and "They and I," a leisurely, genial ever humorous account of the doings, talks and philosophies of three young people and an "old 'un," who is supposed to be the author, Jerome K. Jerome himself. Washington Irving's "Old Christmas" is ready for the holidays, beautifully illustrated with twenty-seven full-page illustrations in color and numerous text illustrations by Cecil Aldin: "St. Francis of Assisi," by Mrs. Robert Goff, and "The Influence of the Franciscan Legend on Italian Art," by J. Kerr Lawson, appear in one volume, with sixty full-page illustrations, nearly all in color and by reproductions of paintings of the old masters; "The Color of Paris, Historic, Personal, Local," is made up of descriptions of some of the cleverest and most graceful French writers of the day, edited by Lucius Descaves, and illustrated by sixty pictures in color from Japanese aquarelles; and Esther Singleton has prepared another of her charming descriptive books on "Famous Cathedrals Described by Great Writers," uniform with her many former successes. In biography and history the latest books are "The Life of an Empress," by Frédéric Lolié, who gives a vivid portrait of Eugénie, wife of Napoleon III., and the downfall of her brilliant court; "The Empress Josephine," a remarkable biography of the wife of Napoleon I., by Philip W. Sergeant; and "The Romance of a Friar and a Nun," being the romance of Filippo Lippi told by A. J. Anderson, with numerous illustrations from the paintings of Lippi. Delightful books of essays are "A Snuff Box Full of Trees," by W. D. Ellwanger; "Knowledge, Life and Reality," by George Trumbull Ladd; and "Lead Kindly Light," thoughts on Newton's hymn, by John Sheridan Zelic, D.D. The juvenile books for issue to-day are "The Kite Book," by B. Cary Kilvert; and "Dick and Dolly," by Carolyn Wells at her best.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have just ready "Men and Manners of Old Florence," by Guido Biagi, librarian of the Laurentian and Riccardi Libraries, Florence, five essays which do not pretend to be a complete study of the private life of the Florentines of the different centuries, but only sketches for a larger picture which the same competent hand hopes to compile from the same hitherto entirely unused material and documents; "Shakespeare's Love Story," by Anna Benneson MsMahan, beautifully gotten up as a holiday book, with twenty-six well-known illustrations; "The Ships and Sailors of Old Salem," the record of a brilliant era of American achievement, by Ralph D. Paine, author of "The Romance of an Old-Time Shipmaster," "The Greater America," etc. From log books, sea journals and other manuscripts hitherto unpublished (most of them written during the years between the Revolution and the War of 1812) are gathered such narratives as those of the first American voyage to Japan, India, the Philippines, the Cape of Good Hope, Arabia and the South Seas. These records are written by the seamen who made Salem the most famous port of the New World a century ago. They have taken over this book from the Outing Publishing Company. They have also just brought out "My Lady of the South," by Randall Parrish, a story of the war between the states. Sergeant Elbert King, of Reynold's Battery, being left for dead after the defeat at Minersville, recovers and hides in the outskirts of a Southern home. Here he first sees Jean Denslow and hears her passionate outpouring of aversion to her marriage, to be forced upon her that night, to a Southern officer. The story of the feud in which the lady is involved and of King's efforts to serve her and be loyal to his cause is without doubt the best that Randall Parrish has written. They have also just ready "A Volunteer with Pike," by Robert Ames Bennet, the true narrative of one Dr. John Robinson and of his love for the fair Señorita Vallois. It is a tale of the days of Thomas Jefferson, wherein the brave Dr. John and his Spanish sweetheart are led through dramatic scenes of social gayety at the capital, distress on the wild frontier, and final impressment aboard a man-of-war. The romantic personages of Aaron Burr and Zebulon Pike, the famous conspiracy of the former and the discovery of Pike's Peak by the latter form a vital part of the plot.

PICK-UPS.

FOUR KINDS OF BAD CUSTOMERS.—A German analysis of bad customers distinguishes them into four classes: The careless or negligent; those temporarily embarrassed; those who are always late in paying, and those who do not pay at all.

CLASSIFICATION AS SHE IS MADE.—The librarian of a medical library in Baltimore was puzzled recently to know what to do with a book entitled "The Birth of the Locomotive," but at length she placed it among the books on "Diseases of the Newly-Born."

THE BENEFIT OF AUTHORS TO THE COMMUNITY.—Captain Marryat in "Olla Podrida," 1835, presented the following highly original view of authors: "It is strange when we consider how very few, comparatively speaking, are the number of authors, how many people are supported by them. 'There are now more than a thousand booksellers and publishers in the three kingdoms, all of whom rent more than a thousand houses, paying rent and taxes; support more than a thousand families, and many thousand clerks as booksellers alone. Then we have to add the paper manufacturers, the varieties of bookbinders, printing-ink manufacturers, iron pens and goose quills, all of whom are subservient to and dependent upon these comparatively few heads.'"

MY CLOSEST FRIENDS.

WHAT should I do without ye,
My silent friends, but true?
When woe and sorrow daunt me
I find solace in you.

In sunshine or in sorrow
At weary toil or rest,
To-day, as on the morrow,
Your friendships stand the test.

I long to have you always
Close to me, dear old friends,
For then naught shall appall me
No matter what fate sends.

For though you're torn and tattered
Frayed, stained, your pages be,
Old tomes; the more you're battered
The dearer you are to me.

Your wear shows you've seen ages
Pass on and others come,
And ye would speak as sages
Were your sealed lips not numb.

Oh, if you could but whisper
The secrets they must hold,
Methinks that much of knowledge
And wisdom they'd unfold.

But though ye cannot tell me
Aught of the things ye saw,
As you passed through the ages
Your pages tell me more.

And though these lines be broken
And feeble, still I know,
That ye'll accept this token
'Tis all I can bestow.

So now dear friends, I'll leave you
To worthier pen than mine,
Tho' none could love you better
E'en were his muse divine.

And may I never sever
A friendship thus attained,
For surely you will never
Break one so long sustained.

OSCAR WEGELIN.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, or those advertising anonymously, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. All objectionable books will be excluded so far as they come under our notice.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" booksellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

WAGNER'S HEROES

By CONSTANCE MAUD

Profusely Illustrated in Black and White and Colors. Cloth, Octavo, Artistically Stamped in Colors. Price, 50 cents.

These stories are for our young folks and not written for Wagnerites or any other learned persons.

These are just simple tales about men and women who once really lived on the earth and about whom the greatest poet-musician wrote in that wonderful music-language of his which speaks straight to the heart.

Bibliographical Helps

ISSUED FROM

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $4.00 a year; to foreign countries, $5.00 a year.

The Annual American Catalog, 1908

In two parts: A short-title index to all the book publications of the year and a full-title index, with brief annotation of the leading books of 1908. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The American Catalog, 1905-1907

Vol. I containing in one alphabet an index to all books published during 1905-06-07; under author, title, subject and series entries. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II containing the full-title Weekly Record material of The Publishers' Weekly for the same years, in a separate alphabet for each year. 8vo, half morocco, $6.00.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $15.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists, fully indexed, in the front of the volume, indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Index to the Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1902, out of print.

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The Library Journal

Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Annual Library Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Nomenclature, Index to Dates of Principal Events, and a Select List of Public Libraries in the U. S. and Canada. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER. (Published annually.) The volume covering 1908, $5.00; all prior volumes, $3.00 each.

The American Educational List

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Directory of Publishers

Contains names and addresses of 3789 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1905, to Dec. 31, 1907. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWOLL, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library," "Three Centuries of English-Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo, boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. State Publications

Just Completed in the Publication of

PART IV., COMPRISING SOUTHERN STATES

Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas

Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER

Embracing provisional check-lists of the official publications of the above-named States from their organization. While the difficulties of compiling a bibliography of this sort at the present time make absolute completeness impossible, every effort has been made to obtain accuracy to the extent covered, by means of the coöperation in most States of the State Librarians, State University Librarians, or officials of State Historical Societies.

The work now complete (1031 pages) will be furnished at $10.00 in four paper bound parts, or at $12.00 in half morocco, A. L. A. binding. Subscriptions will be received only for the whole work

 *But 500 copies have been printed and there are no plates.
Only 112 copies remain unsubscribed*

The attention of State Libraries, of the central public libraries, and of foreign libraries, is especially called to this bibliography, but it is also important to that larger number of libraries which cannot undertake to collect the State publications even of their own State and yet should be able to inform students and inquirers as to what is to be found in the publications of their own State and of other States. What New York and Massachusetts are doing in forestry for instance, is of importance in all States and to foreign students of the subject.
